Article DISCO, March 2015

The European learning platform for teachers is kicked off. This knowledge and quality centre is designed to progress the learning of second chance educators working with NEET groups. The Consortium chairman, Reinhold Schiffers said: "We are extremely excited to launch the platform. Online tutoring solves the problem of learning beyond the classroom and can create possible employment where smart and versatile teachers, trainers, coaches and other industry specialists can become self-employed by teaching online and make a living for themselves. With the increase in Internet availability and affordable of computer/mobile devices, second chance education teachers and trainers can now do more meaningful things with their data packages."

The knowledge centre will upgrade national development to European transversal setting, further the education of teachers, and provide qualitative benchmark for schools, tools for working with beneficiaries and validation of international placements. The developed tools provides opportunities to think and act borderless in second chance education.

FIRST NEWSLETTER SMART PROJECT

The establishment of a European Quality Assurance Reference Framework for Education and Training responded to the policy goals of the "Copenhagen process" and provided a significant stepping stone in paving the road towards quality assurance in Education and Training. Reducing early school leaving (ESL) to 10% by 2020 is a key target of the EU 2020 strategy. The SMART project aims to develop a quality framework, for use by providers of second chance education that will address the gaps.
